BLOOD AND FIRE.

Dangerous Aspect of the Great Railway Strike at Chicago.

SEVEN DEAD, MANY HURT.

Of the Dead Six Were Riotous Strike Sympathizers.

THE OTHER A DEPUTY SHERIFF.

He Was Beaten to Death While Endeavoring to Prevent the Destruction of a Railroad Shanty—Thousands of Railroad Cars Destroyed by Fire—Governor Altgeld Again Protests Against the Introduction of Federal Troops, and Is Seconded by Governor Stone.

CHICAGO, July 7.—Seven dead and an indefinite number of injured is the record of casualties in the strike conflicts in Chicago yesterday. On Thursday one man was shot in the leg. If the blood letting today shall show a like increase the coroner will have a summer's work before him.

The developments of Thursday went far to convince all thinking people that the gravity of the situation had not been appreciated by the authorities or the people at large. Persons who were here during the railroad riots of 1877, and who saw the atmosphere clear perceptibly when no more than eighty regulars from the plains marched down Madison street and went into camp on the lake front, wagged their heads knowingly when three times that number were ordered from Fort Sheridan, comprising the three arms of the service, and said they would make short work of Mr. Debs' followers.

But after twelve hours of as patient and persistent coolness and bravery under trying circumstances as it is ever seen these same citizens and the officers in command were forced to admit that things were not as they were in '77, and that it was still a long mark to peace and the resumption of unimpeded traffic on any of the railroads running out of Chicago.

The developments of the night and those of yesterday have but confirmed the conviction that nothing short of an overwhelming armed force, with instructions to shoot to kill, can settle the trouble, or, as Colonel Crofton put it, "It has ceased to be a mere movement of troops and has become a campaign."

The local and state authorities have awakened to the critically grave nature of the strike malady which is afflicting the nation generally, but Chicago in particular, and are taking measures to apply adequate remedies. The city police force has been already recruited up to over 3,000 men, and by request of Mayor Hopkins and by order of Governor Altgeld two brigades of state militia have been ordered here to aid in quelling the disturbances.

Governor Altgeld has again called on the state troops to suppress disorder. The First regiment, 750 strong, went to Hyde Park and Kensington last evening. The Second, with about the same number of men, followed shortly after, being assigned to the stock yards district under direction of Police Inspector Hunt. The Third regiment, 900 men, will be placed on duty in the district north of Thirty ninth street. The Seventh regiment, 700 men, is held in reserve, together with Battery D, at the Michigan avenue armory.

Bishop Fallows and Rev. Dr. P. S. Henson, of the First Baptist church, have placed themselves at the head of a movement to be inaugurated and conducted by the different churches of the city to bring about a settlement of the present labor difficulties by peaceable means.

At the nation's capital, also, the fact is recognized that the prevailing conditions are entirely out of the ordinary, and that provision must be made for such a meeting of fighting men as has never before been seen in the history of the nation in time of peace, if the authority and dignity of the nation and the processes of its courts are not to be laughed to scorn for an indefinite time.

The strike question is so infective at certain points that the president and his advisers believe it would be unwise to withdraw any more regular troops from the country west of Chicago. It is, therefore, in contemplation, should the forces, federal, state and municipal, already gathered here be unequal to the task of restoring order, to send here the ten companies stationed on the Canadian border, with the reserved intention, if circumstances demand it, of exercising the right to call for 20,000 men of the crack military regiments of New York and Pennsylvania.

The day in Chicago was one of constant alarms and calling for police, deputy marshals and soldiers here, there and everywhere throughout a wide stretch of territory in the southern part of the city. Riot has been running rampant throughout the day, cars have been overturned, switches broken and tracks obstructed in numerous ways. The torch was applied in numerous instances to cars, switch towers and the like, not to mention an attempt to fire a part of the great Armour packing plant. In fact, at one time the incendiary blazes followed each other in such quick succession that the fire department was put to straits to cure for all of them. To add to the gravity of the situation it was found that the strikers were interfering with the police, railroad and fire alarm telegraph system, and in one or two instances policemen who were using the police telephone calls were stoned. About eighty cars were burned altogether in the Illinois Central yards. In addition two hundred stock cars of the Grand Trunk were burned in the stock yards. At midnight incendiary fires were raging in every direction. In the Pan Handle yards alone 1,500 cars were destroyed.

The maddened mobs, worked up to the highest pitch of fury, paralleled the scenes of the commune. To illustrate the tactics resorted to by the incendiaries to hamper the work of the fire department, empty cartridges were forced into the keyholes of the fire alarm boxes, firemen were knocked down with stones and bricks, and while working at fires the horses of the department were stolen.

At the stock yards last night about fifty toughs, few of whom were railroad men, skulked from point to point, and set a large number of fires. Their method was thoroughly unique. Loading several hand cars with waste and oil they would glide around among the cars in the darkness, lighting wads of the inflammable stuff, which would be thrown into the open doors of the cars as they passed by them. Fires sprung up on every hand, and no organized effort on the part of the police seemed to be under way to intercept them. This is the banner district of the city, if not of the country, for all around toughs.

The aggregate of the losses to the railroads will be enormous. Miles of their tracks have been ruined by the fires and hundreds of switches and signal towers, with their expensive mechanism, utterly ruined. Thousands of cars and untold quantities of merchandise of every imaginable description have fed the flames and forged the larders of thieves. The loss will reach into the millions.

In general the order of things, compared with that of Thursday, was reversed. Then the railroads were trying to break the blockade by sending the trains out. Yesterday they recognized the futility of that method of proceedure and practically gave up any attempt at outward movement. But there were some incoming passenger trains on several of the roads together with a few of the regular milk trains.

Between these two classes of traffic the strikers managed to make trouble for nearly every road running in a southerly direction. The Fort Wayne, Lake Shore Michigan Central, Baltimore and Ohio the Illinois Central, the Alton, the Pan Handle, the Western Indiana, the Rock Island and the Monon all experienced difficulty in greater or less degree at some time or all of the time during the day. The trick of scaring the crew from a train, cutting the engine loose, running it up the track, opening the throttle and letting it run full tilt back upon the standing train, was a new one and of a character likely to be imitated.

The stoning of incoming trains was a common pastime with the mob and several persons were more or less injured by flying missiles. One engineer on a Rock Island train was so badly injured that it was at first reported that he was dead.

The assaults of the mobs, however, was not met with the passive resistance which characterized the course pursued on Thursday. On two occasions at least their attacks were met with accurately aimed lead. During a riot in the forenoon over an incoming milk train at Kensington a deputy United States marshal shot and killed two strikers, and during the afternoon the deputies guarding an incoming Baltimore and Ohio passenger train replied to the volley of shots and stones which the strikers showered upon them by turning their revolvers loose, killing four of their assailants and wounding a number of others.

S. R. Ritchie, a special policeman employed by the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago road was stoned to death by a mob at the Fifty-seventh street crossing of that road. Ritchie, who was also a deputy sheriff, caught some boys overturning a switch shanty, and compelled them to set it upright again. While he was talking to the boys a mob approached and attempted to burn the shanty. In attempting to hold them off with his revolver he was so badly beaten that he died soon after.

A new and grave feature was added to the situation yesterday when a meeting of representatives of all the bodies of organized labor in the city, after a protracted discussion in which a general sympathy strike was favored, appointed a committee of three with full power to act, and at the same time called a meeting of all organized labor for tomorrow to ratify their action.

During the afternoon President Debs sent out a large number of telegrams to various labor organizations and assemblies of the A. R. U., urging them to stand firm for at least twenty-four hours longer. If by that time the strike situation has not improved for the better, Mr. Debs announced, organized labor all over the country will be called out without any reservation whatever.

Much apprehension was felt last evening concerning the Pullman shop and yards. The feeling in Kensington and Pullman among the strikers was intense. Yesterday afternoon a committee of strikers made a tour of the works and ordered the watchmen to leave the place or suffer the consequences. Some of these did so, but later returned to their posts.

Of the situation in general it may be said to have strengthened its grip. Its most significant feature is the carrying of the strike east to Cleveland, tying up all the connections of the seaboard trunk lines themselves and so practically reach the Atlantic seaboard by tying up the railroads at Buffalo. Thus the strike would be extended from ocean to ocean.

Every railroad in Detroit was tied up at 10:30 last night, in accordance with the action of the joint meeting of representatives of all the local brotherhoods.

There is no notable relief at the points heretofore placed under embargo, and the situation at Kansas City was complicated by the tying up of the Fort Scott road thereby involving another southwestern line.

The Pacific coast suffers paralysis from which there are no indications of relief and a significant note comes from Seattle, Wash., where the stevedores were called out by the chief of the Knights of Labor to prevent the unloading of a steamer from San Francisco, indicating that Grand Master Workman Sovereign's promise to Debs to aid him in every possible way was not merely for effect.

PERSISTENT GOVERNOR ALTGELD.

He Again Protests Against the Action of the President.

SPRINGFIELD, Ills., July 7.—Governor Altgeld has sent the following reply to the president:

Your answer to my protest involves some startling conclusions and ignores and evades the question at issue, that is, that the principle of local self government is just as fundamental in our institutions as is that of federal supremacy.

First, you calmly assume that the executive has the legal right to order federal troops into any community of the United States in the first instance whenever there is the slightest disturbance, and that he can do this without any regard to the question as to whether that community is able to and ready to enforce the law itself, and inasmuch as the executive is the sole judge of the question as to whether any disturbance exists or not in any part of the country this assumption means that the executive can send federal troops into any community in the United States at his pleasure, and keep them there as long as he chooses.

"If this is the law then the principle of local self government either never did exist in this country or else has been destroyed, for no country can be said to possess local self government if the executive can at his pleasure send military forces to patrol its streets, under pretense of enforcing some law. The kind of local self government that could exist under these circumstances can be found in any of the monarchies of Europe, and is not in harmony with the spirit of our institutions.

"It is also a fundamental principle in our government that, excepting in times of war, the military shall be subordinate to the civil authority. In harmony with this provision the state troops, when ordered out act, under and with the civil authorities. The federal troops you have ordered to Chicago are not under the civil authorities and are in no way responsible to them for their conduct.

"You say that troops were ordered into Illinois upon the request of the postoffice department and upon representations of the judicial officers of the United States. All of those officers are appointed by the executive. Most of them can be removed by him at will. If several of them can apply for troops one alone can, so that under the law as you assume it to be an executive, through any one of his appointees can apply to himself to have the military sent into any city or any number of cities, and base his application on such representations or showing as he sees fit to make. This assumption as to the power of the executive is certainly new, and I respectfully submit that it is not the law of the land.

"The jurists have told us that this is a government of law and not a government by the caprice of individuals, and further that instead of being autocratic it was a government of limited power. Yet the autocrat of Russia could certainly not possess nor claim to possess greater power than is possessed by the executive of the United States, if your assumption is correct.

"It will be an easy matter under your construction of the law for an ambitious executive to order out the military forces of all of the states and establish at once a military government. The only chance of failure in such a movement could come from rebellion and with such a vast military power at command this could readily be crushed.

"Federal troops have now been on duty for over two days, and although the men were brave and the officers gallant and able, yet their presence has proven to be an irritant, because it aroused the indignation of a large mass of people, who resented what they regarded as an unwarranted interference.

"Inasmuch as the federal troops can do nothing but what the state troops can do there, and believing that the state is amply able to take care of the situation and to enforce the law and believing the ordering out of the federal troops was unwarranted, I again ask their withdrawal."

To this President Cleveland responded:

"While I am still persuaded that I have neither transcended my authority or duty in the emergency that confronts us, it seems to me that in this hour of danger and public distress discussion may all give way to active effort on the part of all in authority to restore obedience to law and to protect life and property."

Governor Stone Also Indignant.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., July 7.—Governor Stone is in very bad humor over what he terms the impertinent interference of the United States authorities in local affairs [illegible] to the strike of railway employes. Missouri can protect property [illegible] receive peace without assistance from Washington, and that the [illegible] interference with mails and interstate commerce a pretense for setting aside state authority, without giving them an opportunity of asserting themselves is an outrage. The governor has addressed to President Cleveland a very earnest protest.

Murdered by the Wife of a "Scab."

CHICAGO, July 7.—Herbert Letters, a striking Chicago, Burlington and Quincy employe, was shot and instantly killed yesterday afternoon by Mrs. William J. Lehmann. Lehmann took the place of a Chicago, Burlington and Quincy fireman who went on strike. Accompanied by his wife, he started to go to work, and Letters tried to persuade Lehmann to join the strikers. A fight ensued, and when Mrs. Lehmann saw her husband struggling on the ground with his assailant she drew his revolver from his pocket and fired.

Superintendent Byrnes Prepared.

NEW YORK, July 7.—All vacations in the police department have been stopped by order of Superintendent Byrnes, and members of the force, from captains down, who had left the city on their vacations, were yesterday summoned by telegraph to return forthwith. Superintendent Byrnes was non committal as his subordinates, but it may be stated positively that he is preparing for a spread of the great railroad strike to this city.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

Disastrous Effect of the Strike on Business Interests.

ADVANCE IN PRICE OF CEREALS.

Wheat, with Increased Crop Prospects, Is the Only Exception in the General Advance—New York City Threatened with Famine.

NEW YORK, July 7.—Bradstreets' weekly review of trade says. Aside from the intervention of a holiday there is a sharp restriction of general trade and industrial production, due to railway troubles west of the Alleghenies and north of the Ohio river, which extend west and southwest to the Pacific coast, and make their influence felt in all other directions. The combined railroad strike and boycott has had a steadily increasing damaging influence upon the general industrial situation. Calculations as to the number of men out are necessarily not complete, but there is little doubt that the total number idle as a result of this railway tie up far exceeds the outcome of any previous labor trouble in this country.

All cereals except wheat have shown a decided advance in prices. Pork and lard are up sharply, as are fruits, vegetables, meats and other perishable produce. Pig iron west is commanding twenty-five cents more per ton, and cattle, hogs and sheep are noticeably higher, even at far western markets, where receipts are restricted. The foregoing features are most conspicuous at Chicago and San Francisco, but are having a very unfavorable effect at Minneapolis, St. Paul, Milwaukee, Omaha, Kansas City, St. Louis and Cleveland. General trade at New Orleans, Mobile, Savannah, Nashville and Memphis has been unfavorably affected by the railway tie up.

Favorable crop reports from Texas stimulates merchants to expect a good fall trade. At the larger eastern centers there is no material gain in the situation beyond a speculative spurt in wool, which increased the volume of sales of the same at Boston to a total four times as large as that reported in the week a year ago. Six New England cities shipped 105,000 cases of shoes last week, against 107,500 in the week a year ago. One of the largest cotton manufacturing corporations in Rhode Island has closed down for a week, and other cotton mills continue to pile up stocks.

The United States and Canada carried over on July 1 fully 78,500,000 bushels of wheat against 75,500,000 bushels one year ago and one-half to one-third as large quantities visible in preceding years. The total here, in Canada and afloat for Europe July 1 was 146,519,000 bushels, compared with 152,308,000 bushels one year ago. With Australian stocks included, the world's available wheat supply July 1 was 154,319,000 bushels against 157,209,000 bushels one year ago, when the total was the largest on record for a like date.

Business failures show a further decrease within a week, the total being 164, against 189 last week, 319 in the corresponding week a year ago, and 152 in the week two years ago. There were 39 failures reported from the Canadian Dominion this week: last week the total was 28, against 26 for the same week last year.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s review of trade says: The interruption of business by the railroad strikes has been such that the usual signs, whether bright or gloomy, have little value. The senate has passed the tariff bill, but in such a shape that no one ventures to risk much on its final passage without further alteration.

Speculation in products has turned largely upon temporary uncertainties, but meat products have been higher, with a threatened famine here, and the probability that large quantities will be spoiled at Chicago, while improved crop products have depressed wheat.

The iron industry had not yet recovered from the coal miners strike when it was seriously interrupted by the blockade of railroads at the west. An obvious effect will be restriction of repairs and on building and of track laying. A larger reduction in the demand for iron is the natural consequences of the disturbances affecting the railway earnings.

Textile manufactures do not show improvement, two important cotton mills manufacturing colored goods having stopped indefinitely, while the unsold stock of print cloths at Fall River and Providence has reached 1,064,000 pieces, and a downward revision in prices of bleached sheetings is expected.

Cold Blooded Murder in Kentucky.

CONWAY, Ky., July 7.—Emanuel Coffey was shot through the heart and instantly killed by James Griffin on a Kentucky Central excursion train at Slate Lick. The murder was a cold blooded one. Coffey and several young ladies were sitting together when Griffin entered the coach and declared he was going to kill somebody. The young women became so frightened and Coffey, in assisting them out of the car, came in contact with Griffin and was shot.

Kelly's Army Stranded.

VANCEBURG Ky., July 7.—General Kelly and his army of Commonwealers are stranded at Moore's Landing, ten miles above here, where they were left by the captain of the towboat Connell. Kelly refused to give up possession of the barge and the captain went to Cincinnati to secure the assistance of United States marshals. The army is in a destitute condition. They are foraging off the farmers.

Singular Freak of Lightning.

ELIZABETH, N. J., July 7.—During a heavy thunder storm the spire of the Methodist church was struck by lightning. The electricity ran down the spire, and at the belfry tore pillars and planks from the structure. The bolt then passed through the church from front to rear, between the ceiling and the roof. Some of the boards in the rear of the church were torn off.

TARIFF BILL DELAYED.

It Is Now Tied Up in the Ways and Means Committee.

REED AND BURROWS' FILIBUSTER.

They Demand the Reading of the Whole Bill in Committee, and It Is Impossible to Tell When It Will Again Reach the House.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—The bill for the state taxation of greenbacks occupied the attention of the house all day yesterday, and it was passed by a very large majority. The only point of interest in the day's proceedings was the taking of the tariff bill from the speaker's table and its reference to the committee on ways and means, but this was unattended by any excitement or remarks. Several unimportant bills were passed. When the house met at the night session there were barely two dozen members in their seats. But one bill was favorably reported—a bill to remove the charge of desertion against Oliver O'Brien—and then, at 9:05, the house adjourned.

The committee on ways and means held a meeting as soon as the tariff bill was referred to them. It was the expectation of the Democrats that they would be able to non-concur in the amendments in bulk at once and report back to the house, asking for a conference. They struck a snag at once, however, and they do not know how long they are going to be tied up. The Republicans, as soon as an effort was made to hasten the matter, disclosed their purpose to delay the matter as long as possible.

Mr. Reed and Mr. Burrows demanded the reading of the whole bill and the reading had to be proceeded with, to the great disgust of the Democrats. How ar Republicans can interfere with the amendments being non-concurred in as a whole is yet to be developed. If the amendments have to be considered in detail it will be a very long time before the Democrats can make their report.

The senate was in session but an hour and thirty-five minutes, and then adjourned until Monday. The resolution to enable the secretary of the navy to carry on the work of increasing the navy was adopted, and several bills of minor importance were passed. One resolution and two bills, the outgrowth of the strike, were introduced.

my face to hers, while she laughed and cried in reciting to me in broken words the prayer of her love, while she spoke to me as fervent devotees to God, I felt that I had given to one human being the equivalent of a lifetime of happiness.

I will not tell you how I arranged to obtain the consent of my guardian. I did not ask that of my fiancee—I knew she would pardon me afterward. The banns were published, and I made all preparations for a regular marriage.

During the weeks which followed she lived in ecstasy. Her melody seemed talenting. A miraculous beauty seemed to shine about her like an aureole. She beggar, to forget herself in her dream divine. Her head was pillowed on my arm, and I watched her dark eyes grow wider, wider yet. Her hair shone upon the pillow like a mesh of gold. The silken bridal robe enveloped her like a shroud.

The sun had set, and the daylight was fading, when she murmured:

"Then lovest me, Jacques? Then love the poor girl? Mon Dieu! We will live long. I feel that I cannot die. I cannot die now."

* * * * * *

Her voice sounds as if she had turned back at the entrance of that mysterious land to call to me once more—it is like bells heard far off upon the sea. Her body grows cold in its rich winding sheet, but she no longer suffers. She repeats:

"I cannot die!"

A vague smile hovers over her face, which always wears that look of infinite love, of happiness without a shadow. My heart is still. At that moment I am all that loves in the world—I am a mother, a father, a lover. She murmurs again:

"I love thee. We will live in the country—the violets"——

Her lips part with a smile of ineffable joy, and she is at rest forever.

It is evening, and I gaze through the gathering shadows at the outline of the slender figure in its bridal robe. My sorrow is as profound as it is sweet, for I feel that much will be pardoned me because I have soothed one poor, loving little heart and sweetened with happiness the bitter cup of death.—Translated From the French of J. H. Rosny For Once a Week

A Dying Dolphin.

THE "BIG INJUN" GAME

Batting Order of the Indians in Monday's Game.

Much interest is felt among the base ball cranks of this city in the game of ball which will be played on the Hospital grounds, Monday, between the "Modocs" and the Asylums.

The batting order of the Indians will be as follows:

Wanea-A papi, One Strike, captain.
Tasunka-Ranlie, Slow Horse, catcher.
Tanyan-O-kir-pi, Rest Easy, pitcher.
Laz-ah-au, Run Fast, first base.
Wicas-ta-Patya-rpa-ya, Man who sleeps in a heap, second base.
Ta-te-Ka hom-ni, Whirling Wind, third base.
Cha-pi Ton-ka, Big Belly, short stop.
Heh ka-ska-ta, Frisking Elk, right field.
Kuik-te-ri-cin, Want-to-go-home, center field.
Hok-si-la-Washte, Pretty Boy, left field.

This would seem to indicate that the Indians intend to play with ten men. Well, they will need them if the Asylums put up as good a game as they are capable of.

THE WORLD'S PARLIAMENT OF RELIGIONS.

A great event has never more emphatically made a great book than in the case of the World's Parliament of Religions, followed by the publication of elegant and richly illustrated volumes, which tell the story of the Parliament.

The event was absolutely unique in christian history, though unquestionably a manifestation of the spirit of Christ; and its momentous significance is accurately and vividly reflected in the pages of the authoritative report prepared by Dr. John Henry Barrows. It is a work of surpassing importance to every student of comparative religion and to every intelligent person, who is interested in the condition and welfare of his fellows in all lands.

Russia's Powerful Shells.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 7.—Experiments with the new Russian secret shell was resumed yesterday. The tests somewhat modified the previous results, when the shell easily pierced a ten inch Harveyized iron plate when fired at an obliquity of eight to ten degrees. Yesterday a Cammell's Harveyized six inch plate was used and it stopped and pulverized the new shells fired at an obliquity of twenty degrees. The general conclusion was that the shell will pierce any Harveyized plate at an angle of fifteen degrees and under.

WEAKNESS OF HUMAN NATURE.

Eagerness of People to Take Undue Advantage of a Practical Scheme.

"Do you remember me?" inquired the man as he quietly slipped up to the city editor's desk.

"I can't say that I do," replied the city editor, looking him over carefully.

"You remember I was in here some time ago giving policies of insurance on bunches of keys?"

"Oh, yes, I remember now. I took one."

"Of course. All wise men do. At the same time, if you recall it, I told you I had a great scheme for insuring umbrellas on the same plan?"

"I believe I do recall it. How did it come out?"

The man threw up his hands hopelessly.

"Well," he said, "before that week was out I had my umbrella insurance company at work, with agents all over town. The success was immediate and phenomenal. Everybody wanted to insure his umbrella. The premium was 50 cents a year. The amount to be paid to persons returning lost umbrellas was $3—about the average price of an umbrella a man doesn't like to lose, you know. Agents turned in policies by the pocketfuls the first week. I hadn't any idea there were as many half dollars in circulation as I received at my office. Second week they kept coming, and I began to think of plans for a great building on Woodward avenue for the accommodation of the business, to be known as the Umbrella Insurance building. Third week it was still going. Fourth week it rained. Fifth week umbrellas began coming in. I didn't know there were so many umbrellas in the world.

"Sixth week it was worse, and I began to investigate. Watched the people who brought them in and got the $3. Mostly people above suspicion—to look at. Discovered they had been stealing them; always picked out one with our tag on it. Didn't know there were so many people who thought it no sin to steal an umbrella; never thought of that when I got up the company; wasn't an umbrella in the lot worth $3; didn't know so many people wore cheap umbrellas; something rotten in Denmark. Just come up here from my office; string of people there reaching half way around the block waiting to get in. There isn't money enough left in the fund to buy a ferry ticket with. I've come here to see if you won't lend me that amount. I'm not going back, but I notice in the paper that Mr. Dingbat, the well known president of the Umbrella Insurance company, having been suddenly called to China, left this morning by way of Windsor and Quebec. Do I get the price of a ferry ticket? Thanks." And he went out, leaving the city editor in a condition of partial paralysis.—Detroit Free Press.

One on Joe Bailey.

Senator Perry J. Lewis tells a story on Congressman Joe Bailey, for which, however, he quotes Senator A. M. Carter of Fort Worth as authority.

"One day," said Lewis, "Carter and Joe Bailey were standing on the street when they saw approaching them a darky mounted on a frisky and spirited horse, whose fine appearance caught the fancy of Carter, who is a lover of fine horseflesh. Carter hailed the darky and remarked:

"'That's a pretty spirited animal you are riding, old man. Is he a good runner?'

"'Well, no, sah, he isn't much of a runnin hoss,' replied the rider.

"'Oh, then he is a good trotter, I suppose,' remarked Carter.

"'No, sah, he ain't no trotter neither,' said Scipio Africanus.

"'Oh, I see,' ejaculated Carter; 'he is a No. 1 pacer.'

"'No, sah, dis hoss ain't no trotter, nor he ain't no pacer needer.'

"'Well, what is he fit for anyhow?' asked Carter.

"'Just ter prance aroun an look fine, boss,' replied the darky, 'an dat's why I has outen a compliment named him arter Marse Joe Bailey dar.'"—Galveston News.

Miss Russell's Fondness For Poker.

I am informed that one reason of the little rift within the Perugini lute consisted in Miss Russell's predilection for poker. This is a science to which the golden diva has devoted much study. She likes a game of poker and plays it on the strict rules laid down by General Schenck. Her parties for this diversion are usually composed of four or five people, each of whom is a millionaire. But Miss Russell's income averages $50,000, and she can afford to play. The limit is high and the betting lively. Signor Perugini, whose salary is only $150 a week, could not sit down at such a game without risking his entire week's earnings. Consequently he was ruled out and had to solace himself with sentimental arias up stairs while his wife was winning or losing a fortune down stairs. This isolation brought disquietude to his thoughts, and next morning he was perhaps not so cheerful a companion as a diva would wish at the breakfast table.—New York Press.

The Tornado's Twist.

The tornado and the cause of its formation seem to be less perfectly understood than even the ever mysterious electricity. That a tornado has a violent spiral motion and a distinct ascending movement is well established. The rapid rotary motion tends to form a vacuum in the center of the funnel shaped volume, and this sucking force brings about devastation. When a tornado surrounds a house, the air inside of it forces the walls asunder instantly.

But the inception of a tornado and the causes which lead up to it have not yet been discovered. The scientist tells us that the air of valleys becomes heated and rises, cold air rushes in to take its place, the wind hits against a hill, is changed in its course and goes cavorting down the valley, and that makes a tornado. But what gives it the twist? And there are no mountains in the Mississippi valley, but cyclones form there. Weather bureaus, with all their costly, delicate instruments, have never yet satisfactorily explained what gives the tornado its twist. The world is looking for a man who can discover the tornado in its native lair and definitely define, distinguish and describe it. All this is for the benefit of our neighbors of the east, for the tornado never visits California.—San Jose Mercury.

No Offense.

A boy was once brought before "Old Steady" Baker, the mayor of Folkestone, for stealing gooseberries. Baker turned over Burn's "Justice," but not being able to find the article he wanted in the book, which is alphabetically arranged, he lifted up his spectacles and addressed the culprit thus: "My lad, it's very lucky for you that, instead of stealing gooseberries, you were not brought here for stealing a goose. There is a statute against stealing geese, but I can't find anything about gooseberries in all Burn, so let the prisoner be discharged, for I suppose it is no offense."—San Francisco Argonaut.

Too Paltry.

"Mr. Superintendent, I have come to report that last night as I was going home somebody fired a pistol at me, the ball of which went right through my hat here."

"Is that all? You can come again when the bullet has gone through your head. Before then I am not in a position to deal with the matter."—Life.

SATURDAY, JULY 7, 1894.

Nero's fiddling while Rome burned has its counterpart in Altgeld writing letters to Cleveland, while incendiaries were plying the torch in Chicago's railroad yards.

Some idea of the completeness of the embargo laid on railroad business in the West, by the great railroad strike, may be gained from the fact that no mails from the Pacific coast have been received at the New York post office since July 1st.

Senator Call, yesterday, denounced in open Senate the "malicious wretch" of a newspaper correspondent, who accused him of sitting in the Senate with his shoes off and his feet elevated on his desk. The Senator's wrath shows that Senators, though some of them seemed callous to charges of speculating in Sugar stock, while the sugar schedule was pending, are not insensible to newspaper criticism.

Since the banks intervened to make good the gold withdrawn from the Treasury for export, the outflow of the precious metal has been stopped, this week's exports having been but nominal. This would seem to indicate that there was good foundation for the belief entertained by many that the exports of gold were not due to natural business conditions, but were the work of a combination who hoped to bring about lower prices for stocks by so depleting the Treasury's gold reserve as to cause panicky conditions in financial centres.

Judge Bartlett, of the Supreme Court rendered a very important decision in an insurance case, yesterday, holding that when a fire insurance policy was cancelled by the company issuing it, such cancellation did not become effective until the unearned premium was tendered or paid to the insured. The contention of the insurance companies in the case was that cancellation of policies became effective on the expiration of ten days notice of its intention to eliminate the risk and that the return of the unearned premium could be made at the convenience of the company.

The papers which are in sympathy with the investigation of the New York police department for partisan purposes by the intensely partisan Lexow Committee, unite in condemning the investigation which the Police Commissioners have ordered and are endeavoring to belittle and discredit it in advance. It is not apparent, however, how the Police Commissioners could have avoided taking the course they have decided on. Dive keepers, green goods dealers and others of the criminal classes had sworn glibly before the Lexow Committee that they had paid tribute to the police for protection in wrong doing; yet that committee, when a quantity of sensational testimony had been elicited, and without giving the accused a hearing, adjourned until fall for the evident purpose of resuming the investigation at a time when it might be expected to have an effect on the fall election. Taking the members of the committee at their own words, that they have proved that a corrupt connection exists between the police and the criminal classes, the committee's adjournment shows that its members were willing to permit corruption to continue for two months, to the end that votes might be made for the Republican ticket. The Police Commissioners, as in duty bound, do not propose to wait, but taking the one-sided testimony given before the Lexow Committee as a basis of action, will give the accused officers an opportunity to face their accusers. If they prove their innocence every one should rejoice; if they cannot clear themselves, all will be glad to see them punished according to their deserts.

BRINGING ORDER OUT OF CHAOS

Railroad Tracks in Chicago Guarded by Police and Soldiers—A Crisis Expected, To-day—A Charge by Regulars—Attempted Lawlessness.

CHICAGO, July 7—United States officers and the police believe the crisis will be reached, to-day, and that the day will either see trains running on all roads or crowds fired upon by soldiers.

An order was issued by the police, late last night, to the effect that all tracks must be guarded by police and soldiers within the city limits. According to this order the final attempt will be made to move trains, this morning. The order further says, if bullets are necessary to enforce the clearing of the right of way, to use them.

Strikers insist that they will not allow trains to be run if they can prevent them. Strikers also assert that if to-day's work results in loss of life the railroad companies must bear the blame. The more conservative strikers say they will keep away and allow the roads to send out trains if they can get crews to man them. They also say they will respect the law.

Battery D, with four Gatling guns, is encamped in Dexter Park in the stock yard district. A force of fully 3,000 fighting men is now in the yards.

CHARGED BY REGULARS.

UNION STOCK YARDS, CHICAGO, Ill., July 7.—The regular troops shortly after 7 o'clock charged the crowd in the yards west of Halstead street, which had congregated in the vicinity of a beef train. The yards were quickly cleared and a dead line was established two hundred feet from the cars. The mob then went along the Lake Shore tracks toward the Fort Wayne crossing.

LAWLESSNESS PROMPTLY CHECKED TODAY.

CHICAGO, Ill., July 7.—Word was received at the stock yards shortly before 10 o'clock, to-day, that a mob of 3,000 men was destroying the Grand Trunk round house at 49th street. Troops were at once sent to the scene. After a running fight in which a number of shots were fired the strikers were driven back.

The police captured one of the party of men engaged in tearing up the Fort Wayne tracks, early this morning, near Forty-seventh street. tNo one is now allowed to go on the racks without authority.

Fires among the rolling stock of the Pan Handle were extinguished at 1 o'clock, this morning, after fully a thousand cars had been burned.

Deputies when trying to prevent strikers from blocking the tracks of Illinois Central were driven off, this morning, and the tracks torn up.

The report that fire had broken out in the town of Pullman, is untrue.

SIXTY-TWO INCENDIARY FIRES.

CHICAGO, July 7—For the twenty-four hours ending at midnight, there were sixty-two fire alarm calls from burning railroad property. Several times the railroad shops were fired.

STRIKE MAY REACH PITTSBURG.

PITTSBURG, July 7.—Pennsylvania company officers acknowledge that the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago road is completely tied up west of Fort Wayne.

It is expected that the railway employes here will decide at a meeting, tomorrow, what course to pursue.

BRITANNIA AGAIN A WINNER.

Vigilant First Home but Defeated by Time Allowance in the Race for the Queen's Cup.

By United Press.

GLASGOW, July 7.—The Britannia defeated the Vigilant in the race for Queen's cup, in the Clyde regatta, to-day. When half of the fifty mile course had been sailed the Britannia led by 1 m. 18 sec.

On the way home the Vigilant overhauled and passed the Britannia, crossing the line at 4 o'clock, 17 minutes and 55 seconds, one minute in advance of the Britannia, which won, however, on time allowance.

THE BROAD STREET GRADE.

Property Owners Not Satisfied With the Work of the City Engineer.

There is considerable complaint among the residents of Broad street, regarding the grade, which the city engineer has established on that street between Rowan and DeWitt streets.

It is claimed that the amount of excavating, which will have to be done, is entirely unnecessary, and that the cost of the work will reach between $600 and $700, when for $50 the work could have been done to the satisfaction of all the residents of that street.

No Appetite—Lame Back.

"After I had the grip in the winter I felt so miserable and was in such poor health that I was nearly discouraged. I had no appetite and everything I ate I had to force down. I also suffered with lame back. I bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla and before I had taken all of it I felt over so much better, it gave me a good appetite and my back is all right."—MRS. ANNA VAN ORDEN, New Milford, N. Y.

Whistling Jack.

Jack McCarthy is familiarly known wherever he goes as "Whistling Jack." The prefix to Jack is tacked on him 10 minutes after he lands at any city, and he has been in every town of over 10,000 inhabitants in the United States. Jack can hardly be called a boy now. He is 23 or 24 years old. He made his first appearance in Pittsburg about 10 years ago, a thin, nervous little chap, who stuttered so distressingly that the charitably inclined willingly gave him the price of a paper rather than hear his pitiful attempts to cry his wares. Somebody told him one day that if he would whistle when he came to a word that he found unpronounceable he would soon cure himself of his painful stutter. Jack tried it, and in less than six months the whistle was as fixed a habit as the stuttering. At the end of a year he could no more speak a dozen words without 11 whistles than he could fly, and this was the way he got the sobriquet of "Whistling Jack."—New York Mail and Express.

CLARKSON, N. from my old-time trouble and long sufferings. It has never returned until last winter while I was ill with the grip, a slight attack broke out on my face. After my sickness I was not well; became easily tired and lost my appetite. I resumed taking Hood's Sarsaparilla and am now using the fourth bottle and can run up and down stairs as spry as ever. SUDDEN DEATH OF DR. VAN ETTEN Succumbs to Apoplexy After an Illness of a Few Hours—Life Work of Orange County's Best Known Physician.

The friends in this city of Dr. Sol Van Etten were greatly shocked, today, to hear that he died quite suddenly this forenoon of apoplexy.

Some time during last night the doctor, who had been in his usual health, felt the first effects of the disease and rapidly grew worse until 11:50 this morning, when he died. He was 65 years old.

Dr. Van Etten was born on a farm near Port Jervis, and after graduating from the Albany Medical College in 1850, began practice in Port Jervis and continued in active practice at that place until his death, except during the war, when he served as surgeon of the 56th regiment, commanded by General Van Wyck, Dr. Ira S. Bradner, of this city, being his assistant.

He was a member of the first Board of Pension Examiners, with Drs. Pillsbury and Coleman; was a member of the last Board, with Drs. Pillsbury and Condict, and served in all about twenty years. He was Surgeon General of the G. A. R., Department, of New York, last year; was a member of the County and State Medical Societies and served one term as vice-president of the latter organization.

He was a skillful surgeon and physician and always enjoyed a large practice, and really stood at the head of the profession in Orange county. Such was his reputation as a physician that he was frequently called as an expert witness in important cases in courts, the last time being during the trial of Mrs. Halliday at Monticello.

Dr. Van Etten is survived by his wife and two children

CAN SETTLE FOR $10 EACH.

Herbert Gedney, Mr. Bodine's Attorney, Demands This Sum from Each Member of the "Dynamiting Party."

Some of the young men suspected of being in the party which placed explosives under stepping stones about town, Tuesday night, and who are supposed to be responsible for the injuries sustained by Mr. S. H. Bodine, when a cartridge exploded while he was putting his stepping block in place, Wednesday morning, have been calling, to-day, on Herbert Gedney, Esq., Mr. Bodine's attorney, in response to letters sent out by him, yesterday.

Mr. Gedney has demanded $10 from each member of the party and has given them until Tuesday to settle. If they do not come down at that time he has notified them that proceedings will be instituted.

Many of the young men to whom Mr. Gedney sent notes deny that they were in the party that exploded the cartridges.

THE ERIE AND THE STRIKE.

The Road Tied Up at Cleveland—A Freight Blockade, But Passenger Trains Still Moving.

The big strike reached Cleveland, yesterday, and tied up the Erie at that point. Absolutely nothing is being done in the Erie yards there. No freight is being moved and it was with difficulty that passenger trains were got through.

The Erie agent in this city is still selling tickets as far west as Chicago, but will not be surprised at any moment to receive orders to discontinue sales to that point.

At Work on the Brick Paving.

Messrs. Orr Brothers commenced this morning, to lay the concrete bed for the brick paving between Railroad and Wickham avenues. All the material necessary for the work had previously been distributed along the street, and the excavation having been made, no time was lost and concrete was laid faster than it was ever done before in Middletown.

A Horse Thief Arrested.

Chief Mead, of Port Jervis, received a dispatch Thursday from Henrysville, Pa., asking him to look out for a stolen rig, giving a description of same. Thursday the police heard of a man offering to sell a horse and wagon for $20, and arrested him. The rig answers the description given.

A Paper Balloon's Voyage.

A paper balloon was sent up in Port Jervis on the Fourth in which was placed a message giving the name of the party who sent it. At 7 o'clock that evening the balloon came down near the residence of Ransom Wilcox in the town of Greenville.

A. O. H. Picnic.

The 28th annual picnic, of Middletown Division, No. 1, A. O. H., will be held at Mannerchor Park, Thursday, August 15th, 1894, afternoon and evening. Berg's orchestra will furnish music for dancing.

Personal.

A young lady of seventeen summers, highly educated, refined, and of prepossessing appearance, desires to form the acquaintance of some nice young man, whom she would advise, if troubled with dyspepsia, to use that great blood purifier, Sulphur Bitters.

NEARING THE END.

The Asphalt Pavement on North Street About Completed—An Elegant Thoroughfare and a Credit to the City.

The asphalt paving on North street is practically completed. The blocks have all been laid except the filling in along the rails of the electric road and the tamping of the blocks and the final coating of sand are all that is necessary to finish the work. Of course the merchants on North street and many other people have suffered great inconvenience during the progress of the work and there has been considerable grumbling because it did not go forward faster. But when the condition of North street before work was commenced and the elegant thoroughfare of to-day are taken into consideration, everybody should forget temporary annoyance and be satisfied.

If the asphalt blocks on North street are allowed to remain in place as they are now laid, it will be a long time before the property owners on the street have cause of complaint on account of the condition of the street or be required to expend any more money for its improvement.

We would suggest to the merchants and property owners that as soon as the sand can be removed from the blocks that some system by which the blocks may be kept clean be adopted. It will of course be the duty of the Street Commissioner to sweep the street occasionally, but in order to keep in clean it must not be used as a dumping ground for the sweepings of the stores. North street is now a credit to the city and should be kept in that condition.

MOTORMAN M'ELROY EXONERATED

The Coroner's Jury Find That He Was Not to Blame for the Fatal Accident in Newburgh.

The coroner's inquest to investigate the death of Mrs. Pauline Moses in the collision of an electric car with the carriage of Wm. Pfeiffer, of Mountainville, on the night of the Fourth, has been ended.

Mr. Pfeiffer, and several others who witnessed the accident, testified that the motorman slowed down his car when he saw the horse, but that the animal became frightened at the headlight and backed upon the track directly in front of the car.

It was also proved that Mr. Pfeiffer had said during the day that the horse was balky and had nearly killed him, last Fourth of July, and he would never drive it on the Fourth again.

The jury rendered a verdict exonerating the motorman from blame.

THE SHOOTING OF ROY SLOAT.

The Statement of the Man in Charge of the Shooting Gallery.

Mr. McDonald, who had charge of the shooting gallery at Harlem Park, Wednesday afternoon, takes some exceptions to the statements made in the newspapers about the shooting of Roy Sloat. He says he has ascertained that the boy was not standing in direct line of the target, but at an angle of about 45 degrees from the shooting point. He also says that there was no shooting going on at the time the boy was hurt.

This statement of course differs somewhat from that of others who saw the accident, but Mr. McDonald has a right to be heard in the matter.

AN O. AND W. BRAKEMAN HURT.

A Thumb and Finger Crushed While Coupling Cars.

M. J. Barnhart, aged twenty-four, a single man employed as a flagman on the O. and W. road, had the thumb and third finger of his right hand badly crushed, last night, while making a coupling in the yard in this city. He was taken to Thrall Hospital. It is thought that it will be necessary to amputate the injured members. His home is at Parksville, Sullivan county.

Youthful Train Wreckers.

Will and Frank Dusenberry, the seven and nine year old sons of a farmer living about three miles from Goshen on the Montgomery branch came very near wrecking a passenger train Thursday afternoon. They piled rails on the track just before the train was due, but luckily they were discovered in time to stop the train.

Gashed By Her Fellow Servant.

Mrs. William Walton, of Newton, engaged a couple of servant girls in New York, not long ago. They quarreled in the kitchen, Wednesday, and one of them, named Mary Kennedy, slashed the other, Mary Henderson, in the face with a bread knife, making a very ugly wound. The Kennedy girl was locked up.

EXPERT BADGE CONTEST

The Most Interesting Match Ever Shot at the Armory Range.

The Expert Badge contest at the armory last evening, proved to be the most interesting match that has been shot on the range since the armory opened. The conditions were seven shots each at the 500 and 600 yard targets.

The following scores were made:

Private J. F. Dusenbeerry	61
" O. B. Hill	60
Corporal F. O. Royce	60

Ordination Services at Binghamton.

Rev. Dr. Robinson returned, yesterday, from Binghamton, where he participated, Thursday evening, in the ordination of Mr. W. M. Zumbro, a graduate of Yale Seminary, last year, who has been adopted by the First Congregational Church of Binghamton as its representative in the foreign missionary field, and who having been approved by the American Board, will go as a missionary to the Madura Mission in Southern India. At the ordination services Rev. Thos. K. Beecher, of Elmira, preached the sermon and Rev. Dr. Robinson gave the address to the Binghamton Church.

DeWitt Camp's Camp Fire and Picnic.

Great preparations are being made by General D. P. DeWitt Camp, S. of V., for its annual camp fire and dance at Mannerchor Park, formerly Hulse's Grove, on next Wednesday afternoon and evening. Berg's orchestra of four pieces will be in attendance and in the afternoon will give a concert on the grounds. Refreshments of all kinds will be served. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Base Ball Notes.

—The fine work of the New York League team in the West is a pleasant surprise to its host of admirers in the East. Nine straight victories away from home is a record to be proud of, and it is safe to predict that the Polo grounds will not hold the crowd that will try to see the first game played on the return of the team from its present trip.

A New Style of Hitching Post.

Dwight Platt of Milford, Conn., hitched his ox team, loaded with lumber, to some freight cars standing on a side track near the Milford railway station one day last week and went into a neighboring hostelry to recuperate. A freight train came along about that time, and coupling on the cars without noticing the team started up. The oxen never went so fast in their lives as they did during the next few seconds, and their path was strewn with lumber for some distance. The team was discovered by a brakeman before the oxen were injured, however, and Mr. Platt now uses ordinary hitching posts.—Hartford Courant.

For Over Three Months my son suffered night and day with rheumatism; so much so that he was unable to feed himself. Your Sulphur Bitters cured him, and I am truly thankful to say they are an honest medicine.—Mrs. W. H. Carleton, wife of Deacon Carleton, First Baptist Church, Winchester, Mass.

The Human Electrical Forces!

How They Control the Organs of the Body.

The electrical force of the human body, as the nerve fluid may be termed, is an especially attractive department of science, as it exerts so marked an influence on the health of the organs of the body. Nerve force is produced by the brain and conveyed by means of the nerves to the various organs of the body, thus supplying the latter with the vitality necessary to insure their health. The pneumogastric nerve, as shown here, may be said to be the most important of the entire nerve system, as it supplies the heart, lungs, stomach, bowels, etc., with the nerve force necessary to keep them active and healthy. As will be seen by the cut the long nerve descending from the base of the brain and terminating in the bowels is the pneumogastric, while the numerous little branches supply the heart, lungs and stomach with necessary vitality. When the brain becomes in any way disordered by irritability or exhaustion the nerve force which it supplies is lessened, and the organs receiving the diminished supply are consequently weakened.

Physicians generally fail to recognize the importance of this fact, but treat the organ itself instead of the cause of the trouble. The noted specialist, Franklin Miles, M. D., LL. D., has given the greater part of his life to the study of this subject, and the principal discoveries pertaining to are due to his efforts.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, the nerve vitalized brain and nerve food, is prepared on the principle that all nervous and many other difficulties originate from disorders of the nerve centers. Its wonderful success in curing these disorders is testified to by thousands in every part of the land.

Restorative Nervine cures sleeplessness, nervous prostration, dizziness, hysteria, sexual debility, St. Vitus dance, epilepsy, etc. It is free from opiates or dangerous drugs. It is sold on a positive guarantee by all druggists, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid.

WRITES IN A TRANCE.

The Singular Case of a Kansas City Woman Who Is a Christian Scientist.

The medical profession is much interested in the singular case of Mrs. Edith Morford, the wife of George Morford, a grain speculator who lives at 1208 North Twelfth street. Mrs Morford went into a trance Thursday evening, and all efforts to arouse her have failed. Mrs. Morford has been studying Christian science for about a year, and this mental exercise, the doctors say, probably produced a peculiar nervous condition.

Thursday evening Mrs. Morford, who had been at home all day with her sister, Miss Bertha Erwin, went to her room and retired. Her husband returned home about 10 o'clock. He attempted to awaken Mrs. Morford and failed, called in Dr. Richards and Dr. Martin, who remained all night working with the woman, who, while apparently sleeping like a child, could not be aroused. All day yesterday, last night and today she has remained in the same condition.

The most peculiar feature of Mrs Morford's case is that she occasionally rises from her bed and walks about the house while in her prolonged sleep. Yesterday afternoon she went to the table and ate a few morsels of food and then drew a glass of water. No heed was paid by her to members of the family, and not a word has passed her lips. Last night Mrs. Morford arose, and after arranging her hair attired herself in a black dress and went to the parlor. She seated herself at her writing table, with a Bible open before her, and began writing, and, though her eyes remained closed, the lines she penned were as straight and the words as correctly formed as though written by a good penman with both eyes open.

Dr. Richards and Dr. Martin are among the oldest practitioners in the city, and they assert that this is the most singular case of its nature that has ever been brought to their notice. They express the belief that the woman will soon come out of her trance or prolonged sleep and do not think any harm will come of it.—Kansas City Dispatch.

PARDON CAME TOO LATE.

A Young Woman Secures a Convict's Release Only to See Him Die.

An incident pathetic in the extreme and of interest in St. Louis because of the popularity of the heroine in that city has just come to light. Two years ago Sam J Taylor, a prominent farmer near this city, became embroiled in a quarrel with a neighbor. The fellow struck him, and in the heat of passion Taylor drew his pistol and badly wounded his assailant. An overzealous jury convicted him and sent him to the penitentiary for three years. During his confinement all of Taylor's family died save a sister, who has been untiring in her efforts to secure his pardon. She has been unsuccessful, however. Taylor lost hope and for the past three months had been dying of a broken heart.

Last week Miss Clara Fowler, a Kentucky belle of national fame, visited the penitentiary and in the course of travel through the prison saw and became interested in Taylor. She promised Taylor when she left that she would secure his pardon. Miss Fowler at once set to work, and after securing the data covering Taylor's trial and conviction called on Governor Brown, and the result of her visit was that she secured Taylor's pardon. Immediately after leaving the chief executive she went to the prison hospital, to which Taylor had been removed, and delivered the pardon. When the aged convict saw the paper which meant his restoration to liberty, his eyes were turned to Miss Fowler with a look of ineffable gratitude, and suddenly he gave a gasp and expired. Taylor's only sister was notified, and he was given a decent burial through money raised by Miss Fowler.—Lexington (Ky.) Cor. St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Not Verified.

"Will—you," he said timidly, "will—you have some ice cream?"

"No, thank you," replied the young woman. "I very seldom eat it."

He looked surprised.

"Do you mind getting engaged to me? I know that you have been engaged to several other young men this summer, but that doesn't count."

"I was never engaged in my life," she replied.

A slight pallor came over his face.

"Pardon me, but do you know that your hat is not on exactly straight?"

"Isn't it? Oh, well, I can fix it when I get home!"

He looked at her with a ghastly stare.

"Great Scott!" he exclaimed, "have I read the comic weeklies all these years for nothing?"

And he sank to the pavement and moaned.—Washington Star

Vice President Stevenson.

Adlai Stevenson is working his presidential boom to its utmost capacity. It is noted that strangers go into his room behind the senate chamber, perhaps a little nervous at the prospect of meeting a vice president of the United States, possibly the first they have ever seen, and they come away so delighted with the man they have met that they have almost forgotten that he is the vice president. He never fails to thank a stranger for honoring him with a call nor the friend who brings him for giving him the privilege of seeing him.—Chicago Tribune.

Praised For a Kick.

Nothing so stirs up the indignation of the average adult as to see a little child abused by a grown person, yet when Fireman Nelson kicked a 2-year-old boy in Likton, Md., a day or two ago, so hard that the mark of his boot remained on the child's forehead for hours he was praised by all who saw it and warmly thanked by the little one's parents. Nelson was standing on the pilot of a swiftly moving locomotive when he kicked the boy, and his kick knocked the child off the track and saved its life.—Exchange.

"ADAMANT" WALL PLASTER!

The New, Cheap Substitute for Common Plaster.

It is very hard and very adhesive; it does away with the warping and shrinkage of doors and ceilings, and the building is not saturated with water, as it necessarily must be when common plaster is used; it costs originally but little more than lime plaster, and in the end its superior qualities make it immeasurably cheaper; it can be waiting several weeks or months for the buildings to dry out; it does not crack or fall off, even in the case of leakage; it is applied easily by any good plasterer; it is the only material with which repairing can be done neatly and to stay.

Spencer's Peculiarities.

Herbert Spencer, while traveling in England, pounced upon every man in the cars who smoked or who even attempted to smoke out of the windows. "Is it disagreeable to you?" they would ask. "Not at all," he would reply, "but it is against the law, and the law is a proper one. You have no right to break it, and you shall not do it, and if you do not desist I will call the guard." With porter, cabby or steamboat captain he was ever ready to do battle in the cause of justice, but he had no patience with chronic fault finding. "I used to visit Carlyle," he said, "but he has got so cross and misanthropic and raves so constantly about the hor-r-rible state of things that I couldn't stand it. I do not want to argue with him, and I won't listen to his nonsense, and so I stay away."—San Francisco Argonaut.

Dental Electricity.

Electricity is employed nowadays for pulling teeth. To the battery are attached three wires. Two of them have handles at the end, while the third is attached to the forceps. The patient grasps the handles, the electricity is turned on suddenly, and the dentist simultaneously applies his forceps to the tooth. The instant the tooth is touched it, as well as the surrounding parts, becomes insensible to pain. A jerk, and it is out.—Electricity

The BREATH of a chronic catarrh patient is often so offensive that he becomes an object of disgust. After a time ulceration sets in, the spongy bones are attacked, and frequently destroyed. A constant source of discomfort is the dripping of the purulent secretions into the throat, sometimes producing inveterate bronchitis, which is usually the exciting cause of pulmonary disease. AT THE TELEPHONE.

One End of a Conversation Between the Hungry Man and His Wife.

He is a young married man and lives out in the west end. It was 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon when he was called to the telephone. Nobody knows who spoke to him or what was said, but everybody in the office knows what he said.

"But I'm starving," he said in a plaintive voice. "I didn't have enough to keep a chick alive this morning."

"——— ——— ———!"

"Speak louder. Did the best I could. What? Why, I couldn't find anything to fry the steak in. Hey? Why—why—yes, but you know that I can't cook; besides—hello, central, what did you cut us off for—is that you? You said you were coming home."

"No—what? I didn't wash the dishes. Hey? Well, I piled 'em all up, though."

There was a silence of several seconds, during which he made several attempts to break in.

"But I never thought of the flies. Hey? How could I know they would swarm all over the house. What? I did try to wash the dishes, but I broke"——

"——— ——— ——— ———!"

"What's that? Stand back a little. You are too close to the phone. Why, I couldn't help it—slipped out of my hand. Yes, it did. Slipped out of my hand. That's what I said. Hey? That's the reason I stopped. I piled 'em all up, though."

There was more silence.

"I'm hungry as a bear. What's that? No. I had watermelon for lunch. If you wait till after dinner, I'll be starved."

He listened again.

"You know I can't go to a restaurant for dinner. I'm strapped—tomorrow's payday," and there was an awful anxiety in his voice.

There was another intermission, but he didn't go out, but staid till the curtain went up again.

"Of course I'll promise. Yes, sure. Hey? Say that again. Yes. I'll be on time. I should say so. A square meal will do. No. I didn't understand. All right."

He started to hang up the telephone, but did not do so.

"Hang it, why can't she stay at home? Well, I don't care. Hey? Well, suppose she is your mother—that's no reason why she shouldn't stay away for a few days. What's that? Yes, I do. You know I do. Hey? Oh, well, it's all right, I suppose, Goodby."

Then he gave the telephone receiver a vicious shake, hung it up and went over to his seat. He churned up the papers on his desk and remarked in a deeply earnest and subdued way.

"D—n it!"—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Open to an Engagement.

"Mister," said the greasy wayfarer at the back door plaintively, "can't you do somethin for a pore man?"

"My friend," replied the man of the house, "I am a poor man myself."

"I don't s'pose you know what it is to go all over the country huntin work?"

"No."

"The trouble with me," said the pilgrim, wiping his perspiring brow with the remains of what had once been a handkerchief, "is nerves. I can't do heavy work. If you was to ask me to hoe in the garden to pay fur my breakfus', I couldn't do it. I won't deceive you, mister. I just couldn't do it. But I'm willin to do light work. I won't stand back fur no man alive when it comes to light work. An if you've got any easy job that I can do comfortable like, so as to stimulate my appetite 'thout weak'nin my nerves"——

"I have told you, my friend," interrupted the man of the house, "that I am myself a poor man. I sympathize with you, but I am not able to do anything to help you, and I certainly don't know of any light work you could do. I am a lecturer, and I make only a bare living."

"Would you mind tellin me what you lecture about?"

"No. The subject of the lecture I am delivering this season is 'The Industrial Crisis.'"

"Mister," said the caller eagerly, "don't you want a feller to travel with you as a horrible example of the effects of idleness?"—Chicago Tribune.

Bargain.

His face was pinched and drawn.

With faltering steps he wended his way among the bustling throng.

Anon he paused.

"Kind sir," he suddenly exclaimed, "will you not give me a loaf of bread for my wife and little ones?"

The stranger regarded him not unkindly.

"Far be it from me," he rejoined, "to take advantage of your destitution. Keep your wife and little ones. I do not want them."

Turning upon his heel, he walked away.—Detroit Tribune.

Applying His Vocabulary.

"Dere's a fine word," said Plodding Pete as he laid down the piece of paper that had been wrapped around a ham sandwich. "Dat's a fine word, 'procrastinate.' What does it mean?"

"It means ter put off."

"Does it? An ter t'ink of me bein procrastinated f'um six trains this week. Well, well!"—Washington Star.

SHOTS HERE AND THERE

AN "ARGUS" MAN OFF DUTY AIMS AT SEVERAL SUBJECTS.

A Postal Card for a Discourteous Young Man—Does "W" on the Wings of Locusts "Mean War?"—A Newspaper Writer Who Thinks It Does and Tries to Prove His Case From History.

A postal card, postmarked Bellville, N. J., 5 a. m., July 4th, was received at the Middletown post office, Thursday, which bore this address:

"To the young man who was making entries in a memorandum book at W. end of O. and W. d pot July 3d, at 10 o'clock, a. m., Middletown, N. Y."

Postmaster Elwood, having no means of identifying the young man who was making entries in a memorandum book at the time and place mentioned, and having seen by glancing over the message on the card that it would do the young man good to be reminded that courtesy and consideration are always due to strangers, handed me the card, suggesting that perhaps I could do something with it. The best something seems to be to print it, so here it is:

A stranger, having the impression that the Main street depot of the Erie Railroad was near the O. and W. depot, and yet uncertain, enquired of you, and instead of informing him of its nearby position, you directed him to a half mile walk to the James street depot. He considers that this action was uncourteous and unkind, and by no means following out the Golden Rule. When you next give directions to a stranger, please give them as you would like to receive them yourself, so as to further his early attainment of a desired end and not increasing his difficulties By so doing you will assist him and give satisfaction to yourself. TRAVELER.

Those who want to believe that the "W," which can plainly be traced on the wings of seventeen-year locusts "means war" see in the proportions, which the railroad strike has assumed in Chicago enough war to justify them in asserting that the coming of the locusts had something to do with the trouble or at least foretold it to those who knew how to read the signs of the times. The Chicago outbreak encourages a correspondent of the Herald to affirm that the "W" winged locusts had something to do with the present crisis in the West and to quote history to prove that locusts have always made their appearance before wars and domestic disorders. Even those of us, who ridicule the theory that the veining of the wings on an insect, which is chiefly of interest because of the long period needed for its development can have anything to do with precipitating conflicts between nations or parts of nations will have to admit that he makes out quite a case or else has hit on a remarkable series of coincidences. Here is a brief summary of his array of historic facts:

The appearance of locusts in 1877 was followed by the Russo-Turkish war. After their appearance in 1800 came the War of the Rebellion. Close upon the locusts of 1843 came the Mexican war, and seventeen years further back brings us to the Greek Revolution and the independence of the South American Republics. Going back another seventeen years to 1809 we find the trouble brewing that led to our second war with England and to the downfall of Napoleon Bonaparte. Another seventeen years back and we are in time for the French Revolution and the bloody wars that followed it. Still another seventeen years brings us to the American Revolution Seventeen years before that the French and Indian wars were just beginning and seventeen years before that, in 1742, the treaty of allegiance between England and Prussia was signed that led to the great and bloody war with France. Another lapse of seventeen years and an earthquake devastated most of Italy. A great war between England and France took place seventeen years earlier Once more a backward step brings us to 1691 and the war that ruined the hopes of James regaining the throne of England. Another seventeen years and we are at the wars in Holland, when the Dutch nobly defended their liberties against the Spanish. A jump of thirty four years here will show the time of the breaking out of the civil war in England, resulting in the downfall of Charles I. and the rise of Cromwell to power.

Quite a showing, but weak in the one great essential that after we get back to the beginning of the century there are no records to show that the locusts appeared in the years cited. But it may truthfully be said that such things were not noted then as they are now, and that in many of the years men had much greater things to engage their attention than the hum of insects. No matter whether the advent of the locust has been followed by a stir in the world or not, the facts and figures above given show that seventeen years is about as long as men have been able to restrain their thirst from blood letting.

Thousands of new patrons have taken Hood's Sarsaparil a this season and realized its benefit in blood purified and strength restored.

NO VACATION FOR MANY.

Employers Plead That the Times Are Hard.

WHEN ESCAPE FROM DEBILITATING SUMMER IS NOT POSSIBLE.

Thousands Will Follow the Example of Mabel Jenness.

Vacations are in sight—for some.

But there are myriads of overworked men and women who will get no vacations this year, who will stay at home and simply work and suffer.

Employers plead hard times.

But these tired out, too often uncomplaining men and women need to be told how poor they, and not their employers, really are. They endure the worst kind of poverty, as if it were something there was no use struggling against—poverty of blood and nerves; and it is not until their bodies and brains break down that they complain and seek help.

Continued headaches, poor appetite, a constant tired feeling and nervousness should convince any reasonable person of the need of a tonic and restorative for exhausted blood and nerves The ideal invigorator and reconstructive remedy for a "run down" system, for thin, poor blood and diseases of liver, kidneys and stomach is Paine's celery compound. It feeds worn-out nerve centers and builds up the strength and elasticity of the body. One takes on new weight with its use, pale cheeks gain color, and the skin, undoubtedly the best index of health, is cleared up and freed from the disfiguring signs of the bad humors that are in the blood.

Miss Mabel Jenness, who is celebrated the country over for her successful crusade, for physical culture among the gentler sex, has set them a good example, as appears in a letter written by her from Washington:

"I was induced," writes Miss Jenness, "to try Paine's celery compound at a time when I was suffering from overwork and the effect of an accident. I began to immediately realize tonic and blood-nourishing effects. I take pleasure in saying that, although opposed to medicine in general, I really consider this an excellent preparation.

"I have not been able to take one day's rest since I returned from my long, hard western trip. I am sure were it not for Paine's celery compound, which has a tonic effect, I should not be able to keep up and work hard.

"I recommend Paine's celery compound to a friend who dined with us, yesterday, and on leaving here she went and bought a bottle, I shall do all I can for it, for I believe in it."

So the society woman, whose health and grace are famous the country over, and who is in a position to command the best medical advice, finds in Paine's celery compound the same relief from the effects of overwork and illness that the poorer, harder working woman finds.

And it is within the reach of all,

The Man, the Goat and the Banana.

A big gray goat walked the other day down Whitehall street. When he came near to a vender's cart which stood, piled with bananas, by the curb on the east side of the street, he paused and surveyed the fruit with a fixed and expressionless woodenness of countenance. A man who came along as the goat stood there stopped and bought a banana. He stripped the banana and handed the peel to the goat. Then the man and the goat both stood there and ate—the goat with undiminishing gravity, the man with a rising smile. When they had finished, the man went on his way, the smile still playing on his features The goat passed on with a countenance of unbroken woodenness.—New York Sun

PUBLIC VOICE

Chas. Keener Has a Grievance Against the Common Council.

EDITORS ARGUS:—I see by the published report of the proceedings of the Common Council, on Thursday evening, that an order was made for me to remove my private sewer.

In the first place I have no private sewer, nor have I had one for the past two years. The sewer in front of my premises on Broad street was built by the city and I was assessed $65 for the same. At that time I owned three lots on a portion of Broad street, not yet released to the city, and was taxed on them $6 each for the Broad street sewer and also for the trunk sewer. Later I erected cottages on these lots and asked that the sewer be extended from the DeWitt property to my lots, but the request was not granted. I then built a sewer to connect with the Broad street sewer at a cost of $200. When I sold the cottages the private sewer was included.

Doubtless the reason for the order is that the city engineer has changed the grade of the street, which was one of the best in town, and to conform to this new grade it was necessary to dig down to this private sewer. The change of grade, however, ought never to have been made, for it is a decided damage to most of the properties on the street, as anyone not an engineer can see for himself.

While I have now no personal interest in the private sewer I would suggest that as it is through the fault of a city official that the removal of the sewer seems to be necessary that the city remove it if it must be done. I certainly shall not.
